IRRITATION IN ENGLAND

OVER AFFAIRS IN CHINA

AMERICA BLAMED FOR GIVING AWAY STATE SECRETS TO CHINA.

England Discussing the Advantages of Adopting the Plan of United States in Excluding Chinese.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—No words can express too strongly the irritation of the British foreign office over the latest developments in the Chinese negotiations, and its hopelessness of any working arrangement being arrived at in the near future, except, if anything, its irritation, the chief cause of which, to quote an official, is the extraordinary and unreasonable publicity given diplomatic communications before they are officially communicated to the other powers.

America, according to the view taken by this official, whose opinion may fairly be presumed to echo Lord Salisbury's, is among the offenders in this respect.

"How," continued the informant of the correspondent, "can we be expected to arrive at conclusions when the Chinese are given the opportunity of knowing every step in the negotiations, which in themselves are as intricate as the world has seen. The advantage which this unprecedented publicity has given the Chinese cannot be over estimated. It has constantly given them the opportunity of creating differences between the powers and interpolating 'accuses' and suggestions which, if continued, bid fair to render Europe and America the laughing stock of the Oriental world. And this deluge of notes! What do they amount to? Who for a moment believes that China is going to lay her head in the headman's basket? For the suggestion that the court return to Peking means nothing less. The answers to the notes so far made can be fitly described as an endless chain of reservations, which requires much, if not more, discussion than the notes themselves. Lord Salisbury has endeavored to answer them as they came up, but more, I believe, for the sake of keeping in line than from any conviction that they would accomplish any desired end."

"Will he step into the breach and himself enunciate a line of policy in the hope of uniting the powers?"

"No, I do not think so. Not at present, at any rate. Not until the present curious policy of making Peking diplomatic intercourse a matter of premature public discussion comes to an end. If a father or mother wishes to punish a child, he does not discuss the matter before the offender, or if they do it is probable, the punishment will never be inflicted; or if it is inflicted it proves futile. China is a child, and although we want to punish and improve her, we believe we cannot do so effectively so long as she is made a party to the discussion."

This may be taken as a particularly frank expression of the inner opinion of the British government. While Lord Salisbury may see the darker side of the Chinese problem and may be harassed regarding the composition of the new cabinet, he does not allow these cares to interfere with his only recreation—tricycling.

The advisability of following the example of the United States in excluding the Chinese is becoming a serious question in England. This is partly due to the China crisis, but more directly to the increasing number of Chinese in London, their frequent appearance in police courts and the increasing number of wretched, half-caste offspring.

A writer in today's Daily Chronicle avers that a large number of Chinese are coming to work in the new laundries, declares that no law will prevent them from increasing the already large number of vicious marriages with white women, and urges their exclusion as the only remedy. Among the alterations soon to occur in London are the changing of London Bridge and the building of a tunnel from Rochester to Shadwell at a cost of £2,000,000.

Sir Henry Irving's Galveston relief benefit at Drury Lane, October 16th, promises to be the most important social theatrical event of the season. The program includes the entire company of Drury Lane's "The Prince of Peace," Beerholm Tree's "Julius Caesar," Marie Tempest's "English Nell," Wyndham's "David Garrick," George Alexander's "Debt of Honor," Irving's "Waterloo," and almost all the best artists in London. Miss Melba promised to sing, but seeing this to be impossible, she made a handsome contribution to the fund. Bernhart and Coquelin are atoning for their absence by giving a similar benefit in Paris. Mary Anderson (Mrs. Navarro) regretted her inability to appear, but engaged a box. Every seat is already sold.

Queen's Betrothal Announced.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 17.—The announcement of the betrothal of Queen Wilhelmina to the Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin in the second chamber of the Netherlands parliament today was greeted with cheers. The house charged the president to transmit to the queen its congratulations and thanks for communicating the glad event, which was of the highest importance to the dynasty and country.

A New Enterprise.

Perhaps your attention has been attracted to the display of photos in King Bros' window.

If you know the difference it is not necessary to explain that platinum and carbon is the latest finish in photography and these are samples.

That King Bros. have a photograph gallery in connection with their art store will come as a surprise to many, yet it is a glowing fact and they are doing remarkably clean work in this line owing to the skillfulness of Miss Haskins and Mr. Cal Melvin, who have charge of the studio.

For spring, wedding and honeymoon there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it. For sale by Territory of Hawaii.
